

Columbia Fibres Guild Spring 2021

Columbia Fibres Guild has been plowing through these hard times of staying apart, as has everyone else.

We hold our monthly meetings via Zoom, and are conducting our weekly spinning gatherings the same way.

We continue to have a monthly program along with our business meeting.

- January, we spent an hour with Judith MacKenzie, who talked about, and demonstrated, all kinds of spinning tips and tricks.
- February, we had Yvonne Ellsworth who presented a lesson on dying to achieve the colors you really want.
- March, Nancy Skakel gave us a virtual tour of her 'Dirty Dying' studio and all the fabulous felted and eco-dyed things she is producing.

As we get vaccinated and the weather warms, we hope to be able to gather outside.

One bright spot in all this is that we have gained about 20 new members who are able to join our meetings remotely, because they do not live in our local are. It has been delightful to get to know them all.
